

“UPON THE SUBJECT OF EDUCATION, NOT PRESUMING TO DICTATE ANY PLAN OR SYSTEM RESPECTING IT, I CAN ONLY SAY THAT I VIEW IT AS THE MOST IMPORTANT SUBJECT WHICH WE AS A PEOPLE CAN BE ENGAGED IN.”

A. Lincoln

HAPPY PRESIDENT’S DAY FROM THE LEWIS CENTER FOR EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH! As we celebrate the 200th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln’s birth, we realize that the words above are just as true today as when Mr. Lincoln wrote them in 1832. The Lewis Center continues to push the envelope in creating innovative new ways to help students learn. Visit lewislearning.org to see how you can take part in The Lewis Center’s latest K-12 math and science education project — participating in the upcoming NASA/JPL/Northrop Grumman LCROSS mission to the moon and launching an exciting new math and science curriculum for students throughout the world!
